ICTC Welding Students Win at Regional Competitions

Welding students on Indian Capital Technology Center's Tahlequah campus recently competed in the Regional SkillsUSA Welding contest held in Stillwater. Three Tahlequah High School students competed who included (left to right) Kyle Anderson, Dustin Gower and Pablo Santana. Kyle Anderson took the First place prize, Pablo Santanna took Fifth place after breaking his collarbone two days before the contest. Dustin Gower competed against second year students although being a first year student. Sarah Hicks (right) who was the Outstanding Changing Traditions student went as an alternate. Kyle will go on to compete at the state level in May. Advisor for the students is Mitch Ogle, welding instructor.
