ICTC March Student of the Month is Alix Watkins

ICTC's March Student of the Month is Alix Watkins, a junior from Central High School, majoring in Environmental and Spatial Technology (EAST). Alix's EAST instructor, Ravonda Bethel, observed, "Alix is an outstanding student. She is passionate about whatever project she is working on and gives it her very best. Alix is always willing to help out others in the classroom with whatever is needed. She is very goal driven, organized, and efficient. She has been an asset to the EAST classroom this year."

Alix has been active in Central High School's Indian Club and Focus group as well as ICTC's EAST student organization. She has been recognized for scoring advanced on the English end of instruction exam. In addition, her skills in the EAST classroom have led her to create a texting and driving presentation that she presented at ICTC's advisory council meeting in October.

Taking photographs, editing with photoshop, running, listening to music, shopping, and cruising are some of Alix's favorite activities. When asked what she likes about ICTC's EAST major, Alix said, "Learning new things, taking pictures, and having opportunities to do what I like doing."

After graduation, Alix plans to attend college and pursue a career as a lawyer.
